Domestic Violence:

- ◆ Domestic violence is the occurrence of one or more of the following criminal acts committed against a victim, who is 18 years of age or older or an emancipated minor*, by an adult:
 - Assault
 - Burglary
 - Criminal Mischief
 - Criminal Restraint
 - Terrorist Threats
 - Criminal Sexual Contact
 - Criminal Trespass
 - False Imprisonment
 - Harassment
 - Homicide
 - Kidnapping
 - Lewdness
 - Sexual Assault
 - Stalking

*Emancipated minor means a person who is under 18 years of age but who has been married, has entered military service, has a child or is pregnant, or has been declared by a court or administrative agency to be emancipated.

Identifying An Abusive Relationship:

- ◆ Domestic violence is a pattern of abusive behaviors that some individuals use to control their intimate partners. Domestic violence can include physical, sexual and emotional abuse, and other controlling behaviors.

Does Your Partner Ever:

- Hit, kick, shove or injure you?
- Use weapons/objects against you or threaten to use them?
- Force or coerce you to engage in unwanted sexual acts?
- Threaten to kill you, himself/herself, children, pets, or others?
- Control what you do and who you see in a way that interferes with your work, education or other personal activities?
- Steal or destroy your belongings?
- Constantly criticize you, call you names or put you down? Make you feel afraid?
- Deny your basic needs such as money, food, housing, clothing, or medical and physical assistance?
- Act like the abuse is no big deal, it's your fault, or even deny doing it?
- Threaten to hurt you or others, have you deported, disclose your sexual orientation or other personal information?

If you answered "YES" to any of the above questions, it may be time to think about your safety. Call 1 (800) 572-SAFE (7233) for a referral to a local support program in your area.

Know You Are Not Alone:

- ◆ Abusers often isolate victims and threaten harm if anyone else discovers the abuse. As a result, victims think they are the only ones involved in this type of relationship. Domestic violence happens more than you think, and people are prepared to help.

Domestic Violence Can Happen to Anyone:

- ◆ Domestic violence is a crime. Nearly one-third of American women (31 percent) report being physically or sexually abused by a husband or boyfriend at some point in their lives. More than one million people report a violent assault by an intimate partner every year in the United States. Domestic violence can happen to anyone regardless of employment or educational level, race or ethnic background, religion, marital status, physical ability, age, or sexual orientation.

Domestic Violence Is NOT Your Fault:

- ◆ If you are being abused by your partner, you may feel confused, afraid, angry and/or trapped. All of these emotions are normal responses to abuse. You may also blame yourself for what is happening, but no matter what others might say, you are never responsible for your partner's abusive actions. Batterers choose to be abusive. Abusers blame their victims as though they deserved to be abused. The perpetrator is always responsible for his/her actions. Abusers are completely responsible for their behavior, regardless of their habits or weaknesses.

Identifying Support:

- ◆ Developing a support network can be very helpful to you as you plan for your safety. There are many places to turn for resources, support and assistance. Part of an abuser's power comes from secrecy of the abuse. Let people know what is happening so they can look out for your well-being. Any pattern of abuse is a sign of an unhealthy relationship.

NJ Domestic Violence Programs:

Web: <http://www.nj.gov/dca/divisions/dow/resources/countyresourcesdv.html>

- ◆ Each county in New Jersey offers programs that offer a variety of free and confidential services for victims of domestic violence.

The Hotline provides bilingual service and is accessible to the hearing impaired. To find domestic violence services in your area, visit the Division On Women's website noted above.

Community Support

- Family
- Friends
- Co-workers
- Neighbors
- Churches
- Service Providers (legal, health, counseling centers)
- Women's & Community Groups

Planning for Your Safety:

- ♦ If you are currently in an abusive relationship, it is important for you to take precautions to ensure your safety. Without help, domestic violence often continues to get more severe over time. It sometimes can become deadly.
- ♦ Create a Safety Plan in the event that you are abused again:
 - Tell others you trust, such as friends, family, neighbors, and co-workers, what is happening and talk about ways they might be able to help.
 - Memorize emergency numbers for local police (such as 911), support persons and crisis hotlines.
 - Identify escape routes and places to go if you need to flee from an unsafe situation quickly.
 - Talk with your children about what they should do if a violent incident occurs or if they are afraid.
 - Put together an emergency bag with money/checkbook, extra car keys, medicine, and important papers such as birth certificates, social security cards, immigration documents, and medical cards. Keep it somewhere safe and accessible, such as with a trusted friend and/or a bank safety deposit bank.
 - Trust your instincts—if you think you are in immediate danger, you probably are. Get to a safe place as soon as you can.
 - Seek medical attention if you are hurt. Hospitals and satellite emergency departments are required to provide care and information to sexual assault victims about emergency contraception and the contraceptives upon request.
 - Keep a written record of the abuse.
 - Know your legal rights, there are laws in place to help and protect you.

How Domestic Violence Affects Pets:

- ◆ 88% of pets in abusive household are abused or killed (A Safe Place).
- ◆ 20-25% of battered women delay seeking safety for themselves and their children because they fear for the lives of the pets left behind (The Animal Companion).

Ways Domestic Violence Victims Can Protect Their Pets

- ◆ Develop an emergency plan for sheltering the pets, themselves, and their children.
- ◆ Establish ownership of the pets (obtain an animal license, proof of vaccinations or veterinary receipts all in the victim's name to help prove they own the pets).
- ◆ Prepare the pets for departure (collect vaccination and medical records, collar and Identification, medications, bowls, bedding, etc.).
- ◆ Ask for assistance from law enforcement or animal care and control officers to reclaim the pets if left behind.

Help Is Available:New Jersey County Domestic Violence Programs

- ◆ Each county in New Jersey offers programs that offer a variety of services for victims of domestic violence.
- ◆ Your local domestic violence program may be able to assist victims of domestic violence locate temporary shelter for their animal companions on a case-by-case basis.

Dating Violence—For Teens & Young Adults In Controlling or Violent Relationships:

- ◆ Being a teen or young adult in a dating relationship does not mean that you have to deal with physical, emotional, verbal or sexual abuse. Although you may want to be committed and supportive of your partner, there is no excuse for this type of behavior.

Myths About Dating Relationships:

- “A guy needs to be in control of the relationship.”
- “A girl is to blame when a guy hits her.”
- “It is understandable to hit her—maybe next time she will learn not to make me angry.”
- “I love him. I am the only one who can help him.”
- “Some girls ask for it—that is why they stay.”
- “I should not have nagged him. It was my fault he got angry.”
- “When a guy gets angry, he cannot help it. He is uncontrollable.”
- “I was drunk. I did not know what I was doing.”
- “She hit me first and I hit her back. Everybody does it sometimes.”
- “If she really loved him, she could make him change.”
- “If I could figure out what sets him off and not do it, maybe he could stop.”

All of the above statements are excuses—there is NO EXCUSE for any kind of violence in a dating relationship.

Are You In An Abusive Dating Relationship?

- Are you frightened by your partner’s temper?
- Are you afraid to disagree with your partner?
- Are you constantly apologizing for your partner’s behavior, especially when he or she has treated you badly?
- Do you have to justify every place you go, everything you do, or every person you see just to avoid your partner’s anger?
- Does your partner constantly put you down and then tell you that he or she loves you?
- Have you ever been hit, kicked, shoved or had things thrown at you?
- Do you not see family or friends or do things just because of your partner’s jealousy?
- Have you been forced into having sex when you did not want to?
- Are you afraid to break up because your partner has threatened to hurt you or himself/herself?

If you answered “YES” to any of the above questions, it may be time to think about your safety. Call 1 (800) 572-SAFE (7233) for a referral to a local support program in your area.

Your Rights in a Dating Relationship:

- Express your opinions and have them be respected
- Have your needs be as important as your partner’s needs
- Grow as an individual in your own way
- Change your mind
- Fall out of love and break up with someone and not be threatened
- Have a relationship free from physical, sexual, or emotional abuse
- Not take responsibility for your partner’s behavior
- Grow as an individual in my own way and not be criticized for it
- Have friends of your own
- Be respected, loved and live a peaceful life
- Say “no”

If You Are In An Abusive Dating Relationship, You Can:

- End the relationship and choose not to see your partner
- Get help from someone you trust, preferably an adult, and/or your school counseling center
- Call 1-800-572-SAFE (7233) for a referral to a local support program in your area

- ◆ Provides housing assistance to victims of domestic violence with children, who are receiving shelter or transitional housing services from domestic violence programs across the state. Security deposits and up to two months rent are available to help victims of domestic violence leave shelters. The program also provides long-term assistance, in the form of security deposits and up to six months of housing assistance payments, to help those families who need assistance into the future. Referrals for the SHE program must come through the victim's local domestic violence shelter. Each county of New Jersey offers programs that have a variety of services for victims of domestic violence.

State of New Jersey Address Confidentiality Program Act

Toll Free: 1-877-218-9133

- ◆ The New Jersey Address Confidentiality Program (ACP) provides assistance to individuals who, as a result of domestic violence, have relocated for their safety. The Address Confidentiality Program provides eligible victims of domestic violence with a substitute mailing address, which has no connection to their actual location. This substitute mailing address may be used when creating new records and/or updating records with state or local government agencies.
- ◆ The ACP will forward program participant's first class mail FREE OF CHARGE. The use of a substitute address will limit access to information about the location of individuals participating in the program.

A claim for unemployment insurance benefits can be filed by calling one of the three Remote Call Centers: Union City 201-601-4100 (for Northern New Jersey), Freehold 732-761-2020 (for Central New Jersey) or Cumberland 856-507-2340 (for Southern New Jersey).

Legal Options:Criminal Charges

- ◆ If you or other loved ones have been physically injured, threatened, raped, harassed or stalked, you can report these crimes to the police. Criminal charges may lead to the abuser being arrested and possibly imprisoned.

Restraining/Protective Orders

- ◆ Even if you choose not to press criminal charges, you can file for a civil court order that directs your partner to stay away from you. In many states, restraining/protective orders also can prohibit the abuser from having contact with you at work, home or anywhere you specify, evict your partner from your home and grant you child custody and the abuser may be ordered to pay child support. Under the law, the judge has the authority to honor your requests by ordering any judgment against the abuser that will aid in your protection.

What to Do When You Care—Supporting Victims of Domestic Violence:

- ◆ It is critical to create a strong support system that empowers a victim of domestic violence to break the cycle of violence.
- ◆ For many reasons, it is often difficult for a woman to acknowledge she is being abused by the person who is supposed to love her.
- ◆ Talking to a friend who you suspect is being abused may be difficult for you, but it may be the best way to be a friend.
- ◆ Sometimes, people would like to assist victims of domestic violence, but are unsure what to say or do. Below please find information on supporting a colleague, friend, or family member who is a victim of domestic violence:

What you CAN say to someone who you suspect is being battered:

"I care about you and I am sad this is happening to you. You do not deserve to be abused. The violence will get worse. I am afraid for your safety."

You should:

- ◆ Emphasize that you are concerned. Let the victim know you are supportive and that she is not responsible for what is happening to her – it is not her fault.
- ◆ Emphasize that when the victim is ready, there are a number of options available to help her. Allow her to make the decision that she needs help. Do not try and diagnose or treat the problem yourself, but offer to help her, including making contact with referral agencies.
- ◆ Demonstrate that you respect her decision if she decides to stay with her partner, even though you may not agree with it. Some victims leave and return to their partners several times. Let her know you support her no matter what and that going back does not mean failure.

What to Do When You Care—Supporting Victims of Domestic Violence:What NOT to say to someone who you suspect is being battered:

"If someone hit me once, I would leave. I don't know why you don't just leave!"

- You do not know why she is not leaving. Her reality is probably very different than yours. Leaving a partner can be a very difficult process and often is a dangerous process for victims of domestic violence. In most cases, the most dangerous time for a victim is right after she leaves.
- Do not dismiss her fears of him as if she is overreacting.
- Do not try to instill shame in her for making the decision to stay or return to the relationship.
- Do not tell her she is a battered woman – let her tell you.
